

Brave New Farm?

Practice Unit 3

Summary:

In our imagination a farm is a peaceful and pleasant place where animals live with their mothers comfortably. We feel comfort while seeing these ideal images implanted by calendars and coloring books sets. The reality of images implanted by calendars and coloring books sets. The reality of modern animals life is totally different from these scenes. Now all of our poultry products and red meat are obtained from huge factory like systems. Animals are kept in cages like many shipping boxes. Health and productivity are not brought by syringes and drugs.

are not brought by syringes and drugs. The new factory system provides space for animals but it creates some problems related to health and environment. The factory form requires high input of energy to carry out natural process but it does not produce results as claimed by its supporters moreover it has pulled our society on dark step backward from desired goals. Years before world war two farms has changed ways to produce eggs, meat and milk. Farmer specialized to produce eggs and meat and discovered sucks to Vitamins A and D and new chickens can be raised indoors because sunlight was no longer needed. Large scale indoor products rose rapidly but it created many health problems and serious diseases. During the world war the demand was so high which put their scientist to work on the put their scientist to work on the problems of mass production. Nowadays automatically debeking machine is used which is dangerous. The chicken itself was not ready for mass production. The prewar ancestors of such birds took twice long to grow to market weight.

Understanding character

~ Mr. William Sikes

Summary:

Mr. William Sikes in a velveteen coat, Drab shorts, Half boots and stocking, was sitting in a dark room. In winter the gaslight was glowing at the daytime. In summer the sunlight did not come in this room. A white coated, red eyed dog was sitting near to him. Due to conflict between dog and his

1 Due to conflict between dog and his master, there was a wound at his face and he was licking it. Mr Sikes was busy in his thoughts and he got disturbed by the winking of the dog. Generally dog do not take revenge, but Mr. Sikes and his dog's temper was very harsh. Mr. Sikes pick up the pewter and he wanted to beat revenge, but Mr. Sikes and his dog's temper was very harsh. Mr. Sikes pick up the pewter and he wanted to beat the dog but dog fixed his teeth in master's boot. In anger Mr. Sikes pick up the poker in one hand and shouted at dog. In return, the dog grasps the end of the poker between his teeth and start biting it. This resistance makes master more furious.

and he started to beat dog very badly. The dog ran from the one place to another place and also started barking. Then door opened and the dog rushed out of the room, leaving Mr. Sikes and newcomer in room. Now Mr. Sikes was quarreling with newcomer that "Why did you come between him and his dog?" in a fierce way.

Understanding characters

Fair boy & Fat boy

Summary:

The fair boy was climbing heavily among the creepers and the broken trunks. Weather was very hot in the jungle. A fat boy was behind him. Their plane was clashed. Fat boy asked about moonstone.

behind him. Their plane was crashed.
Fat boy asked about megaphone.
Fair boy replied that it is an Island. There are not any grownups anywhere. Fat boy asked about other kids but the fair boy ignored him and picks his way to water. Fat boy ask about pilot. He was worried.

He said that he saw some parts of plane; flame was coming out of it. Fat boy asked about his

of plane; flame was coming out of it. Fat boy asked about his name. Fair boy replied "Ralph". Ralph increased his speed. Fat boy said that he could not run fast because he is suffering from asthma. Then he cleaned his spectacles and adjusted them on his nose. He saw fruits and begins to move down to reach them. Ralph move toward his way. Finally he came out of the jungle.

ACTIVITY 16.1:

Why does Dickens take time to show us Sikes interacting with this dog?

Ans: Dickens take time to show us Sikes interacting with dog because he wanted to create suspense and he wanted to develop interest in readers mind to read the whole story. That's why first he created a scene and then gets to the main point.

ACTIVITY 16.2:

ACTIVITY 16.2:

1: Select key words or phrases which help the reader create an impression of Sikes?

Ans: A man in a velveteen coat, drab shorts, half boots and stockings. A White coated red eyed dog was winking at his master. He was in furious state. These phrases help the reader to create an impression of Sikes.

2: Look carefully at the way Dickens describes Sikes kicking the dog. Explain how he uses an irony to comment on Sikes

2: Look carefully at the way Dickens describes Sikes kicking the dog. Explain how he uses an irony to comment on Sikes character?

Ans: Mr. Sikes thoughtfulness was so intense that he got disturbed by dog's winking or might his feelings were so molded by his reflections that he wanted relief which he could get by kicking an inoffensive animal. Whatever was the cause but the result was the curse and the kick which he gave to dog at the same time.

2

Ans: Mr. Sikes thoughtfulness was so intense that he got disturbed by dog's winking or might his feelings were so molded by his reflections that he wanted relief which he could

2

3: Explain how Sikes dog reflects the character of his owner?

3: Explain how Sikes dog reflects the character of his owner?

Ans: Mr. Sikes and his dog both are same and have faults of temper. We can estimate from that Mr. Sikes injured the dog and cursed him, he made no ado but he fix the teeth on the boots of Mr. Sikes.

4: How did Sikes speak to his dog? How does it affect the reader impression of the Sikes?

Ans: He said to his dog "you would, would you?" it means he is asking his dog that. He winked by seizing the fire hook in one hand and knife in other hand. He also said to his dog "come hand and knife in other hand. He also said to his dog "come here you born devil, come here do you here?" When the reader will read this story the effect will be not good. Reader will think Mr. Sikes is an off minded person or insane because he has no control in his anger.

5: Sikes appears to be as much of an animal as his dog. How does Dickens create this impression?

Ans: Animals did not have temper when a person hit any animal he responds furiously. The same the Sikes did. So the writer compares him with the animal or the dog because he has writer compares him with the animal or the dog because he has no control on his temper.

6: How did the Sikes greet with the newcomer? What does it tell us about him?

Ans: Sikes greeted with a newcomer in between the conflict between his dog and himself. This thing tells us that where ever or whenever a dispute aroused a newcomer which is devil would be there. And he will be the cause of conflict.

3

ACTIVITY 16.3:

What does each of the following words mean in the context of the passage?

- a) Obscure: Vague, Dark, Hidden.
- b) Brooding: Reflective, Birth, Musing.
- c) Impregnated: Infuse, Fill up, Make full.
- d) Meditations: Reflective, Birth, Musing.
- e) Alloy: Ease, Solace, Meet.

f) Bestowed: Bless, Confer, Give, contribute

g) Leveled: Plane, Flat, Unwavering

h) Parties: Rave, Affair, Function, occasion

ACTIVITY NO 16.4:

1: Which character do you think readers are more likely to sympathize with? Give reasons for your answer.

Ans: Readers are more likely to sympathize with the character

Ans: Readers are more likely to sympathize with the character of fat boy. He lacks confidence which shows his background. He was suffering from asthma.

2: Notice that Ralph and the fat boy speak in very different ways. For instance piggy says "Them fruit" instead of "those fruit". What does this say about his education and background?

Ans: Fat boy speaks in a very difficult way from Ralph. He was confused. He belonged to a poor family and he was not educated. Therefore, his words were wrong.

3: Ralph comes across as confident. What gives us this impression?

Ans: Ralph belonged to an upper class family. He was well educated and confident. He had no concern with others. He was ambitious.

4: Which of the two boys do you think is more mature and sensible? Give reasons for your view.

Ans: Ralph is more mature and sensible because he was not asking useless questions. He was making his way to lagoon.

Ans: Ralph is more mature and sensible because he was not asking useless questions. He was making his way to lagoon. Even he ignored piggy to achieve his goal.

5: What do you think is the significance of piggy's asthma and glasses? Remember they are marooned on Island?

Ans: Piggy is suffering from asthma. He could not run fast due to asthma. When piggy clean his glasses and adjusted them on his nose, he saw fruits. He moved down among tangled foliage to eat fruits.

6: Ralph is obviously trying to ignore piggy. Why?

6: Ralph is obviously trying to ignore piggy. Why?

Ans: Ralph wanted to get out of the jungle. Therefore, he wanted to reach the lagoon. Piggy was disturbing him. Piggy is a fat boy and he is facing many difficulties to run fast and Ralph was ignoring him.

7: Which of two boys ask more questions? What does this tell us about his character?

Ans: Fat boy ask a lot of questions which shows that he is confused about the situation and also worried about other boys.

7: Which of two boys ask more questions? What does this tell us about his character?

Ans: Fat boy ask a lot of questions which shows that he is confused about the situation and also worried about other boys.

8: What does Golding make piggy suffer the after effects of too much fruit rather than Ralph?

Ans: Golding shows that Piggy belongs to a lower class family. When he glanced round the scar he saw fruits. Rather than making his way to lagoon, he chose to eat fruits.

9: Sum up in a few sentences the principle differences between Ralph and the Piggy?

Ans: Ralph is a boy with fair hair. He is confident and ambitious. He wanted to get out of the jungle. On the other hand, Piggy is a fat boy he is confused and asking a lot of questions. He prefers to eat fruit and wants to get out of the jungle.

Zoos-a life Sentence

Summary:

In this, writer said that if you are captive in a room and you have to eat, sleep and go to the toilet in that room. Others decide your mealtime and sleeptime. Your days are practically the same. You are an animal in a zoo. Everyday you are visited.

practically the same. You are an animal in a zoo. Everyday you are visited by humans and people. Will stand and stare you and some ignorant will tease you and throw things on you. When your frustration get too much then they make fun of you. Zoos are claiming to exist for conservation, education and research. The captive animals suffer due to different disease and it is dangerous for wild animals. When animals are transferred from zoo to forest. It creates a lot of problems. Due to increasing population in zoos many animals are killed, many animals are sold to circuses or kept as pet. Visitors spend only few times in front of first cage and then move to another. For research, captive animals are not suitable as they do not behave normal. For this purpose animals must be in their natural habitat. In reality, zoos are just for entertainment not for research. In zoos animals are trained to perform different acts, by lifting the front and hind act at same time, and sea lions balanced balls on their noses. The visitors spend some time in zoos and then they go to their homes but animals live their whole life in zoos. For animals it is the longest reality, zoos are just for entertainment not for research. In zoos animals are trained to perform different acts, by lifting the front and hind act at same time, and sea lions balanced balls on their noses. The visitors spend some time in zoos and then they go to their homes but animals live their whole life in zoos. For animals, it is the longest life sentence ...

The Open Zoo

Summary:

In Singapore zoo, animals are kept in wide enclosures which are separated from visitors by dry or wet moats. For dangerous animals like leopards barriers are not used and they are kept in a beautiful enclosure. Psychological restraint is a technique used for the animals to retain them in their enclosures.

retain them in their enclosures.
Psychological restraint is a technique used for the animals to retain them in their territory by the natural fear of some elements. Such as water for example, gibbon hate water, so they remained in cages by their territory as wet moats is formed in front of their enclosures. This technique is very useful as animals feel free but actually wet moats is^U formed in front of their enclosures. This technique is very useful as animals feel free but actually they are confined. Natural habitats must be created in zoos. It is not only attractive or necessary for animals but also for visitors. Tropical environment, non corrosive material must be used. Choice of colour is also important. To keep feel animals in a natural may small tricks are being used as "big cats" given the food not in proper way but it is hanged so that they jump up for getting food. Sometimes it is packed into a bag; the cats compete eat other to get the bag. Toys are given to animals like tree root balls for elephants and rattan baskets for Orange Ottans. Animals are allowed to go out of their cages for a change. This thinking lies behind the change. This thinking lies behind the Singapore zoo, to keep the different species together. For example at the Night Safari, Indian gorillas are kept with Malayan flying foxes and several species of birds.

2

3

with Malayan flying foxes and several species of birds.

Ethics matter

Summary:

Once a farmer went to church alone because his wife was sick. When he returned, his wife asked him about sermon. She said "what did the preacher talk about?" The farmer said that about "the sin" and was against it. Stealing is also like that. It is a sin and everyone is against it. Napster said that many

It is a sin and everyone is against it. Napster said that many people especially belonging to music industry, they do not consider downloading copyrighted music from internet to be stealing. They have a long history of making billions of the dollars by stealing. But they want to maximize their benefit only. Napster has discussed about stealing in class with posing two similar situations. Number one he said, two similar situations. Number one he said, warranty of your car has recently expired. It has a problem with an on board computer. You have to pay $ 1000. When your work is completed, the service person said that "your car is in warranty" will you pay for it? About 99% said that "They would not". Number Two you are in the dealership, an armored car comes and you notice a bundle of actual value others bring up. the fact that armored car driver could get into trouble. Some people after thinking about it change their mind about first case while others about second. But the fact stealing is present in both cases. Then Napster think that society is going to hell and we

that "They would not". Number Two you are in the dealership, an armored car comes and you notice a bundle of money at that place where the car was parked. Whether you stuff the money in your pocket or return it to the armored car? About 99% said that "they would return it". Both the answers were quite opposite. On finding explanation students said that the first case does not represent actual value of the car.

3

thinking about it change their mind about first case while others about second. But the fact stealing is present in both cases. Then Napster think that society is going to hell and we are losing our moral values. On working about this matter more, the complexity will increase more.

I am a net pirate

Summary:

I have been downloading music from website KAZZA from last two years. I have about 50 CD's of my favorite songs. I am a casual and industrial like piracy, i.e. downloading thousand of songs and also offering them to friends. The recording industry has protected its valuable products and industrial like piracy, i.e. downloading thousand of songs and also offering them to friends. The recording industry has protected its valuable products and also have right to do so. The music industry accepts that we buy glossy CD albums but they do not care if we like tracks 1 to 5 but dislike tracks 6 to seven. So, we but dislike tracks 0 to seven. 00, we could not buy a CD with high price for listening only one song. So there should be modern CD's for young people. What will be happen if I have heard an old song from radio, and I want to store it, but this song was never hit, then I will not pay E15 for an album of about 30 years old? About ten industries have earned many dollars and why the industry is dragging its feet.

now. Also many songs are locked and they cannot be saved. So the industry should not be frightened. about 50 years ago the consumers have hand over millions of Dollars to music industry, besides this, the industry realizes that it should have its control, but we will continue to use sites like KAZZA.